(By Associated Press.)
ROME, August 10.—The Italians have pierced the strong Austrian entrenchments northeast of Monte San Michele, on the Isonzo front, near San Martino. They occupied Boschini, capturing over 12,000 Austrians.

The fighting at the bridge across the Isonzo at Podgora leading into Gorizia was one of the most sanguinary episodes of the war. Before the recaptured the bridge had been named the "Death pass."

After Italian guns obtained command of Gorizia from Sabotino heights, San Michele, Monte Fortin and Basso Fortin, the Italian infantry advanced through the bridge. After the wildest fighting wherein hundreds of Austrians were drowned the bridge was taken. The entire city is comparatively free from damage.

The profits of most papers have already decreased enormously, but the presidential election and European war together are expected to increase the already unparalleled demand which the manufacturers declare they will be unable to meet. BROTHERHOODS FIRM IN THEIR DEMANDS

First Conference With Brotherhoods Fails to Secure Any Special Concessions

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, August 10.—The United States Board of Mediation and Conciliation met today in the first conference with representatives of the four railroad brotherhoods in efforts to prevent a country wide strike for an eight hour day and time and one half for overtime. It is learned the brotherhoods have shown no disposition to modify their demands.

It is assumed the mediators sought to learn from the men how far they are willing to go in making concessions which would bring both sides to a common ground for the basis of a settlement. The brotherhoods' chiefs, it was learned, told the mediators they were still firm in the demands as originally presented to the railroad. In expressing appreciation of the efforts of the mediators, it is said, they informed them they saw little chance of reaching a satisfactory adjustment.

EMPTYING HIGH PRESSURE FIRE TANKS ON NORTH SIDE OF MT. BROUGHER

Next Monday morning stray prospectors drilling their weary way through the San Antonio Valley should not be surprised if they encounter a wall of water racing down from the southern and western slopes of Mount Brougier. On that day the county will begin scouring the new high pressure water tanks which contain 250,000 gallons each and the contents will be diverted to the other side of town. To release such a body of water under a pressure of 160 pounds would be a menace to property and also a danger to the public health, as the contents of the tanks have rested for over a month in a blazing sun that has released all the germs ever found in a liquid body. In addition the water has absorbed the reservoirs were never cleaned and the reservoirs were never cleaned and the staves accumulated all kinds of filth since leaving California.

The cleaning process will be done under the supervision of Campbell Kelly, who have been laying a line of pipe from the safety valves in the bottoms of the tanks through a ditch cut across the shoulder of the mountain. It is estimated that the stored supply can be emptied in eleven hours and a half. At the end of that time a force of men will enter the tanks and give the inside a thorough scrubbing with lime. This process will be repeated three times, when a test will be made and, if the results are satisfactory, the gates connecting the tanks with the town water system will be opened any time the necessity should arise and the full pressure thrown into the general service which then will send four streams over the top of the Bank building.
